

Cllr Simon McGrath

For Federal Policy Committee

What needs to change

Policy with a purpose - passing a motion is a start not an end. We need to look at how our LD run Councils can use our policies once passed and how we can persuade other organisations to adopt them.

FPC needs to appoint a contact person for each English Region (Scotland and Wales have their own reps on FPC) to work with regions and their local parties to think about policy

Our policy development tends to be far too focused on the needs of middle class, white communities. We need to ensure we take into account the needs and concerns of ethnic minority and working class voters

The work FPC is doing on the Economy is vital. Apart from engaging with the EU we have little distinctive to say about increasing productivity and growth, without which they will not be the increased tax base to support the type of Society we wish to build

Our Policy Making process produces comfortable, "dont rock the boat", policy which offends few - but excites few as well
