

TUSHAR ANEJA

Candidate for the Federal Policy Committee

1 WHY I'M STANDING

Win trust. Beat extremism. Turn liberal values into action.

I have worked in Ed Davey's office, serve as Assistant Diversity Officer in Kingston, and support the London Regional Development team.

I want FPC to produce policy that people feel in their bills, jobs, and safety.

2 WHAT I BRING

- Policy craft plus delivery.
- Cross-disciplinary capstone for the Australian Energy Market Commission and the Australian Government on unlocking solar in fossil-fuel communities. We turned consultation into workable incentives and regulatory fixes.
- Strong grounding.
- Two undergraduate degrees in Politics, International Relations, and Political Economy from the University of Edinburgh and the University of Sydney.
- Campaign focus.
- Experience across diverse communities. Clear messages. Results on the doorstep.
- Member-led.
- Open consultations. Straight feedback loops. Papers that are clear, costed, and usable.

Candidate for the Federal Policy Committee

3 PRIORITIES I WILL CHAMPION

- Cost of Living and Clean Growth

Cheaper power and energy security through renewables, nuclear, and local grids. Smarter financing so bills fall and industry grows.

- Democracy and Trust

Fair votes. A modern elected second chamber. Serious rules on corruption and media monopolies.

- New Global Britain

Rebuild ties with Europe and the Commonwealth through practical steps. Human rights, rule of law, and resilient supply chains.

- Young people, Skills, Housing & Development

Pathways into good work, including AI skills. Homes near work. Growth beyond London. Real support for renters and students. Confronting our past on tuition fees.

- Safe and inclusive communities

Stand firm against hate crime. Community policing that protects everyone. Services that meet people where they are.

4 HOW I WILL WORK ON FPC

- Listen first. Start with members, councillors, and campaigners. Bring in outside experts when it helps.
- Be rigorous and brief. Shorter papers. Clear trade-offs. Honest costs and benefits.
- Test in the real world. Pilot where possible. Stress test for cost, fairness, and delivery.
- Join the dots. Bridge Federal, State, and local views so policy lands everywhere.
- Follow through. Turn policy votes into doorstep messages and campaign tools.

The offer

Liberal, competent, and honest policy. Written with members. Anchored in evidence. Ready to win.

Please give me your 1st preference for the Federal Policy Committee.
